DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 8, 10, 14-16, 18-21, 23-28, 30, 32-34, 36, and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jahn et al.

Jahn discloses a system for monitoring a spraying application system comprising user input device 160 remotely located from a manufacturing site 132/136, a remote monitoring module accessible by the user input device over a communication network 169, the monitoring program 342 (figure 6a and 6b, and column 6, line 60 to column 7, line 15), a historical data base, and spraying operating data (column 6, lines 37-59).

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Art Unit: 3752

2. Claims 8-11, 14-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Madden et al.

Madden discloses a system for monitoring a spraying application system comprising a spraying application at a first geographical location, a user input device 212 at a second geographical location, a monitoring program accessible by the user input device over a communication, the monitoring presenting component selection options based on input data from the user input device and verifying component compatibility (figure 2, column 14, line 62 to column 23, line 17), an internet connection (column 16, line 53), using secure websites via known commercial solution such as Internet ExplorerTM and Netscape NavigatorTM which present secure connections, a data base 208 A and B with historical information, and a real-time operating parameters.

3. Claims 8-11, 14-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Friel et al.

Friel discloses a system for monitoring a spraying application system comprising a spraying application system at a first geographical location, a user input device at a second geographical location 131/132/133 located remotely from the manufacturing location, a monitoring program accessible by the user input device over a communication network, the monitoring program presenting component selection options based on input data from the user input device, the configuration program verifying component compatibility (paragraph 28-33), an internet connection (paragraph 0029).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 9, 11, 22, 29, 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jahn et al. in view of Corrigan.

Jahn et al. teaches all the limitations of the claims except for the use of the internet. However, Corrigan discloses a paint matching and spraying system wherein the data is transmitted over the internet (column 6, lines 12-22). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have provided the device of Jahn with the internet as suggested by Corrigan. Doing so would provide to reduce communication cost and allow the greater distance for the spraying locations.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. 4,941,182 to Patel is cited to disclose a remote located spraying system.
